BUSINESS LICENSES

Council skeptical of vendor fingerprinting plan

By Michael J. Ballway mballway@turley.com

Before passing a requirement that certain vendors get fingerprinted, the City Council wants a little more background.

Councilors last week balked at the $100 cost of the procedure, questioned whether it represents an improvement over the CORI (criminal record) check and said it would make the town seem unfriendly to business. They asked that Police Chief Eric Gillis attend the next Legislative Subcommittee meeting, April 16, or the next meeting of the full council, on April 21, to answer their questions.

The proposed ordinance would require that anyone applying for five specific types of business license — alcoholic beverage establishment manager, peddler or solicitor, taxi service owner or operator, dealer of second-hand articles, ice cream truck vendor — be fingerprinted at the applicant's expense. Police would check the prints against state and federal databases as part of a background check on the applicant. The fee for fingerprinting would be $100, of which $30 covers the fee that Agawam would pay to the state.

At an April 6 meeting, several city councilors said the fee appeared unnecessarily high.

"I'm not quite sure how we arrived at that number," Councilor Robert Rossi said. According to state law, he added, "we can't really charge anything more than what's commensurate with the cost of the service."

"It doesn't seem to me like it would be very business-friendly," said Council President Christopher Johnson.

Reached after the meeting, Mayor Richard Cohen said the $100 fee represents the actual n 2010, Scott Milliken posted an advertisement in the Agawam Advertiser News looking for interested people to come to a meeting to talk about a possible dog park.

Five years later, Milliken and several more members of the Agawam Dog Owners Group, a nonprofit entity dedicated to building a safe place for animals to roam and play, joined Mayor Richard Cohen and town officials in the groundbreaking of what will become the Agawam Dog Park located at Shea Park. The groundbreaking was held Tuesday afternoon.

The town of Agawam secured a grant from the Stanton Foundation that secured some of the funding, and ADOG has also raised and donated more than $25,000 toward the project. Money from the Community Preservation Act fund was also used in the project. CPA Administrator Jennifer Bonfiglio said $14,145 in CPA funds were used.

Two weeks ago, Cohen granted the bid for the 1 1/2-acre "first phase" of the park to JL Construction of West Springfield. The Stanton Foundation provided $181,801.99 toward the project,

Back on course?

Council still keeping an eye on municipal golf budget

By Gregory A. Scibelli gscibelli@turley.com

As the town golf course reopens for another season, city councilors are again taking a close look at the green.

Depending on spring weather and business conditions, the Agawam Municipal Golf Course could finish fiscal 2015 profitable, enabling it to pay back the $91,000 that the City Council lent to it back in the fall. Or it could register a loss, which would be the fourth in five years.

The council's Ad Hoc Golf Committee met Monday to review the budget and hear a report from General Manager Tony Roberto.

Golfers have now returned to daily play, Roberto said, and the Southwick Street facility managed to weather the long winter with relatively little damage.

"Many other courses [have] had more damage than us," said Roberto. "We were lucky there was

PUBLIC WORKS

Town to hold cleanup day in May

By Michael J. Ballway mballway@turley.com

Finally, there's someone who can do something about the litter on that street, the pile of trash in that vacant lot, the empty bottles and cups strewn around that park.

You.

The Department of Public Works is declaring May 2 to be "Agawam Clean" day in the town, and asking citizens to organize groups to tackle litter in any section of town where they find it — whether on streets, sidewalks, schoolyards, fields, parks, parking lots or neglected property. Tracy DeMaio, who coordinates solid waste removal for the DPW, is leading the effort.

"It can be any space, if there's a volunteer out there that really has an area they want to target," she said. "If it's an eyesore to them, it's an eyesore to someone else."

Mayor Richard Cohen credited De-Maio with coming up with the "very exciting" idea of a volunteer cleanup day after seeing months' worth of litter recently exposed by the melting snow.

So far, said DeMaio, a Girl Scout troop has expressed interest in participating. The town posted a call for volunteers on its website this week, and retired Agawam High School science teacher Nancy Bobskill, who runs the Helga's Zero Waste Movement blog (helgazerowaste.blogspot.com) has been drumming up support among her readers, DeMaio said.

After assembling a team and finding a space to clean, DeMaio asks litter busters to call the DPW at 413-821-0624 and claim the spot. A map of claimed territories will be posted at agawam.ma.us.

Groups can clean their territory at any time, although the DPW is suggesting 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, May 2. Groups are invited to take "be-

Town pledges to conserve water

By Gregory A. Scibelli gscibelli@turley.com

Are you ready to take the water conservation pledge? People throughout Agawam have been, and as of early Wednesday morning, the town was in 16th place in the fourth annual National Mayors' Challenge for Water Con-

While there are numerous towns throughout the western part of the country participating in the contest, Agawam is one of just two municipalities in Massachusetts that has decided to get involved. Boston is the other one.

"I think it is extremely important that we be educated about our water and that we make an effort to conserve water whenever we can," said Agawam Mayor Richard Co-

Many of the cities leading the challenge are in California, which is facing drought conditions, but Cohen said the pledge is in some ways just as relevant to Massachu-

"This is not just a contest to pledge to conserve water," the mayor said. "It is also about pledging to be responsible, like not harming our water and putting contaminants

Cohen said recently a drug take-back box was installed in the lobby of the Agawam Police Department. It allows residents to drop off unused medications that otherwise might be dumped down the drain in the toilet or sink. The federal Environmental Protection Agency is now advising people that flushing medications and other chemicals can harm the water.

Tracy DeMaio, the solid waste and stormwater coordinator in the Department of Public Works, says Agawam residents have been conscientious over the years when it comes to both areas.

'We have a lot of people that have worked to conserve water through the use of rain barrels and other tools that we have offered people, like controls for the kitchen faucets," said DeMaio. "Taking this pledge and being educated is just another tool for us to work at keeping our water

Agawam actually helps provide water to Springfield through Provin Mountain. Agawam has some of the cleanest and purest water in the region, and DeMaio believes that is a great reason for the town to participate in a friendly competition.

"It's a lot of fun to try and see how we can measure up to towns and cities throughout the region," said Demaio.

To take the pledge is very easy. Simply visit www.mywaterpledge.com and sign up with an email address or Facebook page. Pledge signers will be asked to enter some basic information.

"It's very easy to do and we hope more people will take part throughout the month," said DeMaio.

The mayor has been encouraging students and town and school employees to also take the pledge and set an example for all residents.

Between April 13 and 15, the town jumped from 20th to 16th place in a competition with other cities and towns across the country with populations between 5,000 and 29,999. When Cohen took the pledge a week earlier, Agawam was placed 77th.

"I'm very proud of our current standing and that people are taking this pledge," said Cohen.

The pledge will be available for the remainder of the month.

Leonard House to host silhouette artist

Just in time for Mother's Day, the Captain Charles Leonard House, 663 Main St., Agawam, will host silhouette artist Marcella Comerford all day on Saturday, May 2. This is the first time since 2012 that authentic cut-paper silhouettes have been offered there.

Silhouettes are instant family heirlooms and are a great way to document family members of every age. They make ideal birthday or Mother's Day gifts. Silhouettes are $35 per profile and $15 for a duplicate copy; frames and mats will be available for sale that day. A portion of the proceeds of this event will aid in the preservation of the 200-year-old Captain Leonard House.

Using only her trained artistic eye, delicate scissors, and fine black paper, Comerford creates her silhouettes in minutes. She does not use a shadow or tracing method. She and her mother are two of only about 15 silhouette artists in the United States, and have appeared at events through New England. Comerford silhouettes have also been featured in Yankee Magazine.

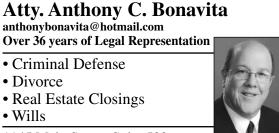

Reservations are required and are being taken in 10-minute increments from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information or to reserve a sitting, call 413-786-9421.

The Captain Charles Leonard House was built in 1805 as a stage tavern to service travelers on the Hartford-Boston route. It has served as Agawam's Community House since 1939, when Minerva Davis restored the property and created the nonprofit organization that operates the house. The house was placed in the National Register of Historic Places in 1975, and occupies a prominent location in the Agawam Center National Register Historic District. The Captain Leonard House is considered to be Agawam's finest Federal-era home and is available to rent for business functions and social events. For more information, call 413-786-9421 or visit www.captainleonardhouse.

Organ donors save lives

oes your driver's license have a heart? It should if you do.

About half of adult Massachusetts residents have the little red heart in the corner of their driver's license or state ID card, indicating that they're willing to serve as an organ donor when they die.

You won't need your heart, your lungs, your kidneys, your liver, when you're gone. But someone else might. What better way to leave this life than by giving the gift of life to someone else?

The life you save may be someone close to you — if not emotionally, perhaps geographically.

Last week, we told you the story of Paige Anderson ("Making a Match," page 1), one of your neighbors, whose life was saved by a friend who donated his kidney — and they weren't even a match.

Through an exchange program, her friend Jason Weaver was able to donate his kidney to another waiting patient, and someone close to that patient donated a matching kidney to Anderson.

She has two people to thank: her friend Jason and the donor from the exchange.

Some other people aren't so lucky. According to the New England Organ Bank, 18 people die in America each day because a matching organ couldn't be found for transplant. A new name is added to the transplant waiting list every 11 minutes. There are more than 120,000 people across the country waiting for trans-

Living donors like Jason Weaver are making a big and difficult decision — elective surgery, and the risk that they might have needed that "spare" kidney later in their own life. It's a step that most of us would only take if it meant saving the life of a family member or close friend.

But signing up as an organ donor at the end of life shouldn't be a hard decision. Organs and tissues are removed surgically, making an open-casket funeral just as easy for a donor as for someone who had surgery while still alive. Doctors won't treat you any differently — they take an oath to save lives, period, regardless of whether the patient's death would benefit someone

April is National Donate Life Month. If you're not yet an organ donor, take some time this month to sign up. Start at https://secure.rmv.state.ma.us/OrganDonor/intro.aspx — most people can complete the nocost registration entirely online.

Knowing that this simple, no-cost step could save a life should make your heart grow. And that could be good news someday for someone else.

Rich and Christina Morassi opefully, you read Greg Scibelli's article in the April 9 issue of the Advertiser News about the upcoming April 30 symposium at our town library. By now you should be reading "The Invention of Wings." If you read like my 12-year-old granddaughter Olivia Salva, you will only need a couple of days. She reads more in a week than most of us do in a month, or, for some people, a year. It's nice to see a young person that would rather read than play a video game.

The symposium organized by Richard Morassi will be similar to the one held on April 6, 1989. Participants, who had read a fable and a short story in advance, broke up into groups to discuss their opinions and ideas. AHS English teachers Joanne Brown, Judy Lech, Larry O'Brien and Rosemary Stratton acted as facilitators. You may remember that Joanne Brown was Joanne Cimaroli '64 and Rosemary Stratton was Rosemary Massa '57. Here are some more of the 55plus participants: Joe, Ed and Donna Modzelewski, Mary and Gerry O'Keefe, John and Cathy DeBonville, Jim Bruno, Wayne Macey, Irene Thomas, Lou Massoia, high school students Missy Brown, Michelle Willard and Christina Morassi, and Advertiser News editor Ric Sardella.

In the fall of 1963, about 14 recent AHS graduates were beginning their freshman year at UMass. They were led by Paul Halbach, who had graduated third in his class, and John Kosinski, who had graduated fifth. Paul had scored over 1400 on his SATs in his senior year and John hadn't even bothered to take them because he had scored two identical 677s in his junior > year. Both Paul and John later graduated with honors in 1967. Big surprise! Also at UMass at the same time was Richard Morassi '59, who had a few more credits left in order to graduate Maybe that was a hint that Rich was not just an athlete. After UMass, Rich got his law degree from Boston University. After passing the bar exam he worked for three and a half years for Berkshire Legal Services in Pittsfield, but then moved back to Agawam where he was in private practice until his retirement in 2004. From 2000 to 2004, he was on the Town Council, where he was known to be pro-education and a supporter of programs for special needs children. Rich married his wife Linda in 1964. They met at UMass and Rich credits Linda with putting him through law school. Their daughter Christina graduated from AHS in '89 and now works in the Oakland, Calif., area, where she is an adviser to women seeking to start or improve their own business.

Josephine Kida, mother of the Kida drummers, called from California to thank us for the story featuring her boys. She and her husband Chester both grew up on

iving lessons of tax season

ately it's been good to see April showers in You're not afraid to give your opinion! Tell us hopes of May flowers. But for a lot of people, April just means taxes are due. Even back in the time of Jesus, taxes were front and center on people's minds. In Matthew 22:15-12, we read an account of the Pharisees (the lawyers of that day) trying to get Jesus into trouble. They said, "Teacher, we know you are a man of integrity and that you teach the way of God in accordance with the truth. You aren't swayed by men, because you pay no attention to who they are. Tell us then, what is your opinion? Is it right to pay taxes to Caesar or not?" But Jesus, knowing their evil intent, famously responded: "Give to Caesar what is Caesar's, and to God what is God's."

Have you ever had somebody try to trick you into saying something in hopes that they could get you in trouble? As a kid, I can remember many such occasions where somebody was just trying to set me up. Unfortunately, I can recall a time or two as an adult also. "You're so great!

Pastor Ken Blanchard

what you think. ..." In this New Testament passage we hear just that kind of story. They tried to trap Jesus into taking a stand on whether the Jews should or should not pay taxes to the Romans. Either a yes or no answer would have gotten Jesus in trouble. "Yes" would discredit him with his followers; "No" would subject him to possible arrest. Both sides probably thought Jesus would oppose the tax, like most of his followers. So their first tactic was flattery, praising his integrity and devotion to truth. But Iesus called them hypocrites, and then asked them to show him the Roman coin that resulted in him saying, "Give to Caesar what is Caesar's, and give to God what is God's." It was an ambiguous answer, more than sufficiently safe in that it did not give any reason for either side to take offense. And they were probably more than a little disappointed at that.

Ambiguous as it was, it raised a question that was as relevant then as it is today: What belongs to God, and what belongs to "Caesar"? That's a good question to ponder. Answers may vary according to our own experience and reason, and according to the traditions we grew up with. And it shows us that the Bible is a living word. Likewise, the spoken word preached from pulpits is a living word. The miracle is in the hearing. Did you ever notice how different people might hear the same exact sermon, yet get something entirely different from it? The Holy Spirit is giving a word for them — in fact, some people feel at times that the preacher is speaking directly to them. So it is with the written word — the Bible. Sometimes we can re-read a particular Bible passage, and get something entirely different from it. Words might jump off the page to us. Or, in discussing it with others, we find other perspectives, other truths emerge that we might not have considered before. It is a miracle of the living word. The scriptures are relevant to our daily lives. Even during tax sea-

shredding for residents

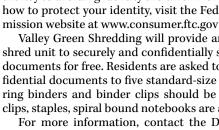

Agawam's Department of Public Works will host free document shredding for residents on Saturday, May 2, from 9 a.m. to noon at the DPW Annex, 1000 Suffield St.

"I am very pleased to offer this opportunity to the residents of Agawam as it is not only environmentally beneficial but also provides a safe place for the disposal of confidential papers to prevent identity theft in our community," said Mayor Richard Cohen. "I am sure that this shredding event will be as successful as the past ones."

Shredding old documents such as bank statements, medical records, bills, canceled checks and legal papers is the key to avoiding identity theft. For more information on how to protect your identity, visit the Federal Trade Com-

Residents are asked to limit their confidential documents to five standard-size boxes. All threering binders and binder clips should be removed. fore and after" photos and share them with the DPW.

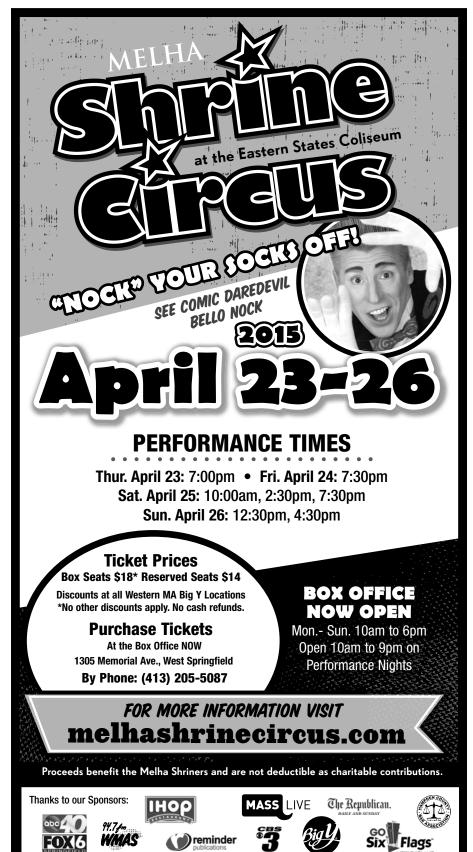

During this inaugural year, the DPW is asking cleaning teams to bag the litter they pick up and include it in their members' weekly trash pickups. In some other towns with similar cleanup days, the DPW provides trash bags, gloves and pickup on the day of the event. DeMaio said Agawam is considering that for future years.

She said she hopes Agawam Clean will become an annual event every spring. She could not recall any town-sponsored event like this in Agawam in the past, though she noted that the DPW has provided some assistance to Connecticut and Westfield river watershed associations, and scouting groups, in their cleanup efforts, and the town Beautification Committee has organized cleanups of its own.

No bulk items or construction waste should be included in trash bags to be picked up. DeMaio said any group finding such items should contact the DPW.

In addition to being visually unappealing, litter represents a hazard for wildlife and waterways. During rain storms, trash left on the street could wash into storm drains, which empty directly into the brooks and streams that feed the Westfield and Connecticut rivers.

Theater camp applications available

Applications are available for summer theater camps at the Red Door Theatre, 152 S. Westfield St., Feeding Hills. The 23-year-old theater offers camps for ages 8-15, which all culminate in four productions open to the paying public. There are also three junior camps open to 5- to 9-year-olds, which end with a showcase of the musical "E-I-E-I-Oops!" for parents and invited guests. They run June 29 to July 3, July 20-24 and Aug. 10-14.

This year's other camp productions are camp A: "Happily Ever What!?" a mixed-up fairy tale fantasy by Agawam's Marilene Allen set for July 6-12.

Camp B is "Quest for Aladdin's Lamp" by Lyle Pearsons of Agawam, scheduled for July 13-19. Pearsons also wrote the camp C selection, "Cutlass of the Sea" for the older actors, ages 10-15. The play is based on the Irish female pirate Grace O'Malley and will run July 17 to Aug. 2. The final camp D will present "The Snoop Troop Agency" by Southwick's Margie Secora. This mystery comedy of a young detective agency is scheduled for Aug. 3-9.

not much when the snow finally melted."

Roberto said he is looking to complete spring cleanup work during the next four weeks. Minor repairs will be needed for the irrigation system, though.

The course, which is supposed to operate as a self-sustaining enterprise, has $142,084 on hand to fund operations for the remaining two and a half months of the fiscal year. The budget is set by the previous year's revenues, said Roberto, and has declined to below $600,000 per year. He said the course has used 75 percent of its operating budget during the first nine and a half months of the fiscal year.

Council Vice President Dennis Perry, chairman of the Golf Committee, said improving the golf course will be a long process, and it may take several meetings and brainstorming sessions to return the course to profitability.

Perry said he plans to review past budgets with Roberto in the near future to learn more about the different line items. Roberto will then begin providing regular reports to city councilors to keep them apprised of the course's progress. Roberto is hoping to for a better year, now that the weather has improved.

Roberto said he has already began several positive efforts to make improvements to the course.

He said he has reached an agreement with the mayor and the Parks and Recreation Department to offer an eight-week junior golf camp to help introduce younger players to the game, as well as involve players at the high school level in the summer. Roberto is looking to nearby golf courses to offer a driving range option.

He said some additional lighting has been installed on the outside borders of the parking lot, a suggestion that had been made by Councilor George Bitzas last fall.

Roberto has put a lot of work into the restaurant and banquet facilities. Banquets and parties have been increasing and a new chef has helped bring better practices and better quality of food, recently, he said.

"There is an emphasis on using fresh food and providing quality service to our customers," said Roberto.

All members of the City Council were invited to this week's meeting. Councilor Robert Rossi asked Roberto if he could report the number of rounds of golf played by members, who do not pay for each individual round, as opposed to non-members, who do. Roberto said such an advanced point-of-sale system would cost between $30,000 and $50,000.

Also at the meeting, Councilor James Cichetti took a seat on the board, replacing Councilor Gina Letellier, who recently resigned from the Golf Committee.

The ad hoc committee was organized last year after city councilors expressed concern about declining revenues at the golf course. In addition to the $91,000 to cover potential shortfalls in this year's budget, the City Council spent $22,245 in November to cover golf course losses from fiscal 2014.

Cohen said that to his knowledge, the town has not had any problems with CORI checks in the past.

At the meeting, Councilor Paul Cavallo asked why a fingerprint check - and another $100 fee - would be required for annual license renewals, rather than just new applications.

"How do fingerprints change?" he

Cohen said the check needs to be done every year, "if they committed a crime from one season to another."

The council voted 10-0, with one absent member, to take no action on the proposed fingerprinting law until its next meeting.

According to doctors, repeated blood donations increases your blood flow. In addition, the American Journal of Epidemiology found that blood donors are 88 percent less likely to suffer a heart attack.

Before you give blood, donors are given a quick physical that measures temperature, pulse, blood pressure and hemoglobin levels. The blood is also sent to a lab where it will undergo 13 tests for infectious diseases. If anything comes back positive, donors will be notified immediately.

The event is open to the public. To register to donate blood, visit www.redcrossblood.org.

Muay Thai studio opens

Harnessing Muay Boran will celebrate its grand opening April 25, 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., at 338 N. Westfield St., Feeding Hills.

The martial arts studio will feature free boxing and Muay Thai demonstrations, health and fitness tips, boxing and MMA gear for sale, free food and a raffle with prizes including a television, according to Muay Boran manager Brian Thomas.

Muay boran (pronounced m-oy boron) literally means "ancient boxing" and is the grandfather art to Muay Thai. Muay Thai is referred to as "the art of eight limbs" and is a kickboxing-style martial art that comes from Thailand. Variations of Muay Thai can also be found in the surrounding countries such as Laos and Burma. Muay Thai utilizes the fists, elbows, knees and legs to strike the opponent. Muay Thai has been made famous by the hard roundhouse kicks and the clinch-with-knee strikes that are associated with the art.

Thomas said Harnessing Muay Boran specifically does not mix other arts into the teaching of Muay Thai, priding itself on being "the only true Muay Thai studio in Western Mass." Owner and head instructor Vakny Chonmany is from Laos and Thailand, Thomas said, ensuring authenticity. Other touches that set the studio apart are hand-made uniforms custom-made and imported after a November 2014 trip to Laos and Thailand, and a patch system for rank, instead of the traditional belt system, featuring patches with a custom symbol hand-drawn by the head monk of a temple in Laos. The studio also teaches Iron Body techniques that, when practiced for years, render bones and muscles resistant to strikes and nearly unbreakable.

Harnessing Muay Boran also teaches boxing techniques for those who wish to train in striking with the hands. Additionally, the studio offers personal training services, massage for people with tight muscles, stiff joints or injuries, and retail of Chinese medicated massage oils and high-end fighting gear from brands such as Ringside, which cannot be found anywhere else in Western Massachusetts and also funded the design of the park.

Milliken filled a room for his initial meeting, and then a core group of people took over and began holding meetings and fundraisers to advocate for a dog park.

Cohen said he was really happy to see the citizen-driven effort.

"I was really glad when I saw Scott's ad in the newspaper and I called him and said I had wanted to have a dog park," said Cohen.

The project is being supervised by Parks and Recreation Director Christopher Sparks, who worked during the past year with other town officials to secure the grant funding and do the design for what was supposed to be a 5-acre park, working on a projected $270,000 budget. When the bids came in near $500,000, officials had to reconsider the scope of the project.

"I was scared," said Cohen, recallling when he saw the bids. "I was not sure we were going to be able to do this."

A redesign was performed during the past few months and the project was scaled down to less than half the acreage, to fit the budget.

The current blueprints for the dog park include a fenced-in area that would be utilized for small dogs. A larger area will be designated for large dog play.

Current ADOG President Deborah Sanchez said the three most expensive line items projected are the grass area in the park, proper fencing, and playground equipment for the animals, some of which has been left out of phase 1 for budget reasons. She said ADOG will continue functioning and will continue fundraising for the park.

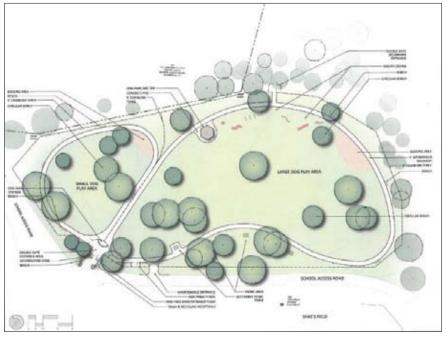

"There is going to be maintenance costs and many other things that will want to enhance the park," said Sanchez. "So we plan to keep going so we can make this park the premier destination in Western Mass."

There are no plans, yet, to expand the park to the full 5 acres as originally envisioned.

City Councilor George Bitzas said he was happy to see the dog park construction beginning and is hoping it will be successful.

"This is a nice thing we can have for the town," said Bitzas. "And the best part is it did not cost any taxpayer money."

Construction actually started on Monday, and the park should be complete in about two months, Sparks said. Then grass will be planted. He hopes the park will be open for us on or about July 1.

Plans for the Agawam Dog Park include playground equipment and two lawns, one for small dogs and one for larger dogs. TOWN OF AGAWAM ILLUSTRATION

When the "Love Concerts," scheduled for Friday, April 17, at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the Agawam Senior Center, are over, I intend to take a spring vacation for a while and get ready for a new time schedule from the one I have been on recently; but things don't usually change too much.

The concerts are free and we hope the show comes together. It usually does and we hope to see a large crowd there.

Town receives NWS 'Storm Ready' status

Mayor Richard Cohen has announced that the town of Agawam has received approval for its second renewal of the Agawam's "Storm Ready" status from the National Weather Service. Glenn Field, warning coordinator meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Taunton, notified the town Emergency Management Office last week of the renewal status.

Chet Nicora, Emergency Management director, and Mike Nicora, deputy director, submitted the renewal application. The application contains information regarding how the town alerts its residents in the event of an emergency. It also requires a detailed list of how the Emergency Management Office monitors weather sources, emergency notifications of weather conditions and other means of anticipation of weather conditions.

The renewal application is reviewed by a committee of representatives from the National Weather Service, Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency, Federal Emergency Management Agency and an emergency management director.

Each renewal period is for three years. Agawam is only one of two communities in the four counties of Western Massachusetts that have a "Storm Ready" status from the National Weather Service.

GIRLS LACROSSE

Lady Brownies dominate Terriers

By Gregory A. Scibelli

Turley Publications Correspondent

AGAWAM – It's going to be a quick and intense regular season for the Agawam girls lacrosse team as they got started a week late and took the field in victories over East Longmeadow and West Springfield.

Agawam has shown the ability to do two things well: Play defense and score goals.

That was very evident for the Brownies as they scored all over the field in their home opener on Monday afternoon against West Springfield in a 19-3 drubbing.

Agawam is showing a lot of depth to start the season with seven different players registering goals and the defense creating many turnovers in the game. Agawam's defense was so tough that goalie Kristina Tran only needed to make one save to get the victory.

Agawam was hot from the get-go with Katie Martin and Julia Serra picking up where the left off last season. Both scored early in the game and then kept the momentum going throughout the first half.

Serra would finish with six goals and Martin had five goals and an assist.

Jackie Nielsen and Gianna Signorelli both scored goals in the first half as well and Agawam jumped out to a 13-2 lead.

Serra started out early scoring the first and second goals of the game for the Brownies. Martin then got in on the act with the third and fourth goals to give Agawam a big advantage. Midway through the first half, Nina Bruno notched a score, then Martin came back with her third goal of the game to get the hat trick.

Marissa Ewing would also score later in the first half and Nielsen had both of her goals in the half. Serra would finish the half with her fourth goal of the

Panthers nip Brownies at end

By Gregory A. Scibelli

Turley Publications Sports Correspondent

AGAWAM – It took an extra week, but the boys lacrosse team finally opened up the regular season last Tuesday. They followed that with a game Friday and are 1-1 to start the regular season.

Coach Joseph Heney said the extended spring and the longer time in the Agawam High School parking lot while waiting for the fields to be playable was both bad and good for the team.

It was tough with some limits, but good for building team unity and toughness.

Last Friday afternoon, the Brownies suffered their first loss of the season, getting outlasted at Spec Pond in Wilbraham against Cathedral, 9-8.

Agawam held the lead late in the game, but Cam Peritz and Riley Prattson each scored for the Panthers and the Cathedral defense held Agawam scoreless in the final 6:00 to take the victory.

Neither team had a lead of more than two goals at any point, though Agawam held more leads throughout the game. Agawam and Cathedral matched each other after one quarter and the teams were tied 3-3.

Agawam would then get the only goal of the second quarter to give the Brownies a 4-3 halftime lead

Cathedral got that goal back in the third and matched the Brownies again to go into the fourth quarter with a 6-6 tie.

Agawam would go ahead early in the fourth quarter, but Cathedral's comeback iced the game for the Panthers.

Chris Basile led the Brownies with three goals and Chris Breault and Elijah Bard had two goals each. Nick Hanchett added a goal. Tahiir Blair was very busy in the goal with 14 saves in the complete game effort.

Last Tuesday night, the Brownies opened up the regular season with a big victory over rival West Springfield, 14-8, at Clark Field. The two teams played through cold and rainy weather and the Brownies jumped out to an early lead in the first quarter, only up 2-1.

After the slow start, Agawam really poured on the pressure and started scoring with frequency late in the second quarter. The Brownies got five goals in a matter of about 6:00 to take a commanding 7-1 lead.

Agawam impressive in 4-0 opening stretch

By Gregory A. Scibelli

AGAWAM – While it is still very early and the Brownies have not faced a top contender in Western Massachusetts, they do look a lot like the team that has reached the state volleyball championships for the past two years.

Agawam jumped to 4-0 with victories over Putnam Voke and Holyoke during the past week.

Their first big test came up earlier this week against West Springfield. The Brownies will also be facing their big rivals Chicopee Comp, Minnechaug and Westfield.

Jeff Leclerc had an amazing game last Friday afternoon against the Knight as he recorded a career-high 24 kills for Agawam. He would led a charge that would be a clean sweep against Holyoke in three games.

Agawam dominated the first two games of the set, but had to work a little bit harder and outlasted the Knights in the final game 28-26.

Agawam had wins of 25-16 then 25-9 in the first two games.

The Brownies had every aspect of the game going for them against a young Holyoke team. Kris Page and Anthony Frigo added three kills each.

On defense, Roman Mokan had 17 digs while Frigo added 13 and Leclerc had 12.

Cathedral turns back Agawam

AGAWAM – The new-look Brownies put out a great effort as they were finally able to take the baseball field in their regular season opener on Monday after-

Unfortunately, it did not go Agawam's way despite a great start as they were defeated 8-6 by Cathedral in a tough matchup held at Forest Park in East Spring-

Agawam fell behind as Cathedral touched up Cam Rivest for a run in the bottom of the first, but Agawam busted out the bats for a five-run second inning that gave them a good lead in the early-going.

One of Agawam's newest additions, senior Anthony Basile had the big hit of the second inning, sending a gap-shot for a basesclearing double. It was Basile's first hit for the varsity this season. Basile did not play for the team last season and was injured the year before.

Basile is getting ready to play football for Westfield State University, but decided to spend the spring playing baseball and providing Agawam with more catching and infield depth.

Even with some players off the bench in the game during the second half, Agawam was able to keep West Springfield off the scoreboard, limiting the Terriers to just one goal in the second half.

Last Wednesday, Agawam got to start the regular season on the artificial turf as they played at East Longmeadow in their season opener and picked up a 13-7 win.

Agawam struggled a bit early, but got the momentum going as the first half progress and exited the frame with a 7-2 lead.

East Longmeadow played better in the second half, but Agawam outlasted the Spartans in the second half as Serra led the team with four goals and an assist. Eliza Timms and Martin each had three goals. Three others added a goal each. Tran had six saves in the net.

The marathon continues Thursday with a tough matchup against Longmeadow at 4 p.m. They will host Longmeadow on Tuesday at 4 p.m.

On the service line, Mokan had five aces, Page had three and Leclerc added two.

Garrett Hollander, who has been providing a lot of assists from the setting position, had 17 in another fine effort. Sophomore Connor McAnanama also got into the match, and recorded 16 assists for the Brownies.

Hollander had another huge game against Putnam as he put up 38 assists in the three-game set last Thursday afternoon.

Leclerc had 21 kills for the Brownies and Agawam won games of 25-20, 25-14, and 25-13.

In the young season, Agawam has defeated Sabis, Belchertown, Putnam and Holyoke. Agawam has not been defeated in a game so far this season, with Holyoke coming the closest so far.

The Brownies have been getting great results from a system that has included a lot of hard work during spring practices and a work ethic assistant coach Kevin Pender has been pushing into the younger Brownies.

Agawam is definitely rebuilding, but the boys volleyball program continues to develop talent and Agawam has the chance to continue contending for a Western Massachusetts championship even with a younger starting lineup.

Agawam has won two straight sectional titles and won the state championship two years ago. They graduated five of their seven starters from last year.

John Colwell led the scoring charge with six goals and two assists. Bard and Basile had three goals each. Bard also contributed five assists for eight total points in the game. Breault and Nick Hanchett had a goal each. Blair made eight saves in the goal.

Football stars honored at banquet

REGION - Last Sunday afternoon, some of the best and brightest players in Western Massachusetts football were honored at both the high school and college levels at the 53rd Annual Scholar-Athletes Awards Dinner held on the campus of the University of Massachusetts-Amherst.

Among the special award recipients were Minnechaug Regional High School's Zach Wawrzyk and Chicopee High's Wawrzyk was the recipient of the Archie Roberts Award, which is given to an outstanding scholar-athlete and the school they represent.

Wawrzyk said he was very proud to be representing the players from his team and the school in receiving the award. He is an offensive linesman, playing the right guard position. He is 6 foot, 3 inches and weighs 275 pounds. He was very proud to be recognized by the Western Massachusetts chapter of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame, especially since he plays a position that is not often recognized.

"I have been playing football for a long time," said Wawrzyk. "It has always been a part of my life, and I have always been linesman because I was bigger and weighed more. But I enjoy it and I really hope to continue there."

Wawrzyk was part of a Minnechaug team that reached the tournament last fall and lost to Longmeadow in the Di-

Wawrzyk is also an A-student and will be heading to Division I Holy Cross of Worcester in the fall, where he hopes to continue his football career.

He was pulled up to varsity during his freshman year, then was a starter on the line for past three years. He hopes $\,$ to pursue medicine while in college and said it is important to be a good student. He would like to be a surgeon when he finishes school.

Slaughter was one of several players recognized for his exemplary grades as a part of the All-Academic Team with a small handful of players from the region.

"Football is not going to last forever for me," said Slaughter. "I want to be able to be able to do something later on in life with my brain. So it has always been very important for me to get good grades."

Slaughter was a multi-purpose player for the Pacers, which missed the playoffs by one game. Slaughter was a quarterback/running back on offense and also played safe-

He is leaning toward attending Bryant College and says he may pursue being a safety or a slot receiver or work on special teams to start with.

He said he appreciates being selected for his grades and his family is very proud.

'My parents have always encouraged me to get good grades and they are really happy to be here," said Slaughter. "It goes to show sports are not the only thing that is important. But I did have a great career on the football field."

The evening also honored numerous players from around the region for their accomplishments on the football field. Players from Agawam, Ludlow, Minnechaug, Holyoke, Chicopee, Chicopee Comprehensive, South Hadley, Belchertown, Ware, Palmer, and Pathfinder were given All-Western Mass honors.

Rivest took his four-run lead and ran with it for two innings, holding off the Panthers for a little while. But the Panthers were able to come back and put up three runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to trail 5-4.

Rivest would leave the game and handed the ball to Tym Regnier, who was touched up for a pair of runs and Agawam fell behind 6-5.

The Brownies would fall further behind in the sixth with another pair of runs scoring off Griffin Gadreault, pitching in his first game since being hurt last year.

Agawam was able to get one run back in the top of the seventh, but the rest of their threat was extinguished.

Rivest went the first four innings and allowed just one hit. He had some control issues, walking seven hitters. He allowed four runs and had five strikeouts.

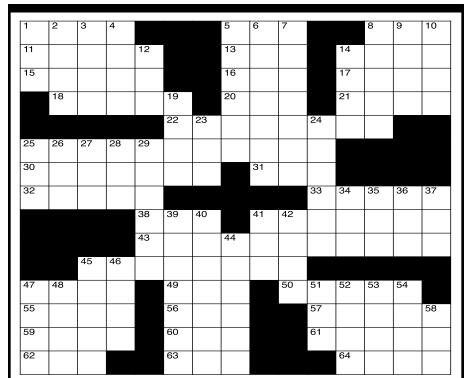

Regnier allowed two runs on two hits and walked two with a strikeout mixed in. Gadreault allowed one run on four hits and struck out two in his one inning of work.

Basile went 1-for-4 with a double and three RBIs. Rivest tried to help his own cause with a 2-for-3 day. He had a double and scored two runs for Agawam. He was also hit by a pitch. Luke Rheault went 1-for-3 with an RBI and a run scored. Dalton Drummond also had a hit.

In his first game, senior, college-committed, and major league-scouted Seamus Curran went 0-for-3 with a walk.

The Brownies had to turn right around and face West Springfield Tuesday. They are scheduled to face East Longmeadow on the road Thursday at 4 p.m.

Cynthia E. Ayre, 56
Cynthia "Cindy" E. Ayre, 56, of Agawam, passed away peacefully on April 10, 2015, surrounded by loving family and friends.

Beloved daughter of the late Anthony Ayre, Cindy leaves behind her mother, Mary Leonora Ayre of Agaand girlfriend Gina and his daughter Cassandra, all of Agawam. She leaves her sons Nicholas Krolicki and fiancée Valerie of Quincy, and Benjamin Krolicki of Agawam. She leaves nieces Shauna Hadden and daughter Ava, and Lindsey DeFilipi and husband Michael and their son Bodie. She also leaves her best friend, Marilyn Perrault.

Born in Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, N.C., June 28, 1958, Cindy attended Agawam High School and later graduated from Springfield Technical Community College. Cindy had a very successful career with Ayre Real Estate for almost 25 years. She loved people and she loved helping them through the buying and selling process. She contributed so much to her community and local board of Realtors. Cindy's achievements include Realtor of the Year, president of the Realtor Association of Pioneer Valley, president of the Agawam Small Business Association, and president of the Business and Professional Women's Association, among other affiliations and organizations.

Not only was she an exceptional Realtor, she was an amazing person loved by her family, friends, co-workers and clients. Though she will no longer have a physical presence in their lives, she will live in their hearts

She spent most of her life in Feeding Hills not far from where she grew up. In 1976, she graduated from STCC as an R.N. and went on to enjoy an emotionally rewarding career as a night shift nurse at Heritage Hall in Agawam. She retired at the age of 75. In her later years, she enjoyed sunny days working in the gardens she loved, and spent time reading on her porch swing. She made many friends at the Agawam Senior Center, eventually becoming the Chapter 1 president. Millicent was a wonderful writer, and spent a great deal of time writing on her computer. She was very proud of a book she wrote about her childhood, and considered it to be one of her greatest accomplish-

The free public event on April 10 was part of the Agawam Cultural Council's Applause Series.
